Sujata Stupa

Bakraur, Bodhgaya, Gaya

Sujata Stupa or Sujata Garh, is a Buddhist stupa located in the village of Senanigrama (Bakraur) east of Bodh Gaya. It lies directly across the Phalgu River from the town of Bodh Gaya. It is a walk of about 20 minutes, from Bodh Gaya to Sujata Stupa. It was initially built in the 2nd century BCE as confirmed by finds of Dark Grey polished wares and a punch-marked coin in the monastery nearby. The stupa was dedicated to the milkmaid Sujata, from the village of Bakraur, who is said to have fed Gautama Buddha milk and rice at this spot as he was sitting under a Banyan tree, thereby ending his seven years of fasting and asceticism, and allowing him to attain illumination through the Middle Path.

Akshayvat

Maranpur, Gaya

Akshay Vat meaning is everlasting, indestructable "Banyan Tree". It is very important place due to the fact that Pinda Daanis done near this tree. Pinda Daan starts from Falgu River and finishes at Akshay Vat. This tree got a boon from Sita, that it can't die. That's the reason why it is called Akshayvat. According to VedPuran, Lord Krishna stays under its shadow, when the whole world will drown in to the water, this tree will not die, because of getting boon from Sita.

Mangla Gauri Mandir

Gaya

Mangla Gauri temple is a Shakti Peetham in Gaya, Bihar. It has been mentioned in Padma Purana, Vayu Purana and Agni Purana and Devi Bhagvata Purana and Markandeya Purana as well as in other scriptures and tantric works. This temple is among the eighteen maha shaktipeeth. The present temple dates back to the 15th century. The shrine is dedicated to Sati or the Mother Goddess in the predominantly Vaishnavite pilgrimage center of Gaya. Mangalagauri is worshiped as the Goddess of benevolence. This temple constitutes an Upa-Shakti Peeth — where it is believed that a part of the body of Sati fell according to mythology. The temple is facing east and is built on top of the Mangalagauri hill. A flight of steps and a motorable road lead to it. The sanctum houses the symbol of the Goddess. It has some finely carved ancient relief sculptures. There are two minor shrines dedicated to Shiva and images of Mahishasura Mardini, Durga, and Dakshina Kali.

Vishnupad Mandir

Gaya Jee, Vishnupad, Gaya

Vishnupad Temple is an ancient Hindu temple dedicated to Lord Vishnu in Gaya. It is located on the banks of Phalgu river. The temple is believed to be built upon the site where Vishnu had purportedly killed the demon Gayasura or pinned him underground. The temple features a 40-cm footprint purported to be of Lord Vishnu incised into a block of basalt, known as Dharmasila which was retained when the deity stepped on Gayasura's chest before pinning him underground. Atop the structure is a 50-kilo gold flag, donated by a devotee, Gayapal Panda Bal Govind Sen. The Vishnupad temple is the center for Shradha rites for Hindus in Gaya. The legendary saints Madhvacharya, Chaitanya Mahaprabhu, Vallabhacharya have visited this shrine.

Dungeshwari Temple, Pragbodhi

Gaya

The caves in Dungeshwari Hills are said to have protected Lord Buddha before he descended to Bodhgaya. Before descending to the sacred town of Bodhgaya, it is believed that this is the same cave, which protected Lord Buddha for six years, before he travelled to Bodh Gaya for attaining enlightenment. These caves now house several temples which are widely visited by pilgrims who follow the trail of Lord Buddha's journey.

Dungeshwari Hills are located at a distance of about 12-15 kms from Gaya, along the Falgu river. Chinese pilgrim Hiuen Tsang has mentioned these hills in his travelogue. The caves might lack visual appeal but offer a surreal experience for those who let the transcendental energy take over their conscience. One of the cave temples is dedicated to the Hindu goddess, Dungeshwari.

Sita Kund

Opposite of Vishnupad Temple, Gaya

Situated on the opposite side of Vishnupad temple in Gaya is Sita Kund. Sita Kund is an invaluable heritage from a cultural point of view. Sita Kund is associated with the Ramayana period, and it is believed that Sita Mata donated the body of her father-in-law, Dashrath here. Sita Kund is a small temple situated on the other bank of the river Falgu, just opposite the Vishnupad temple.

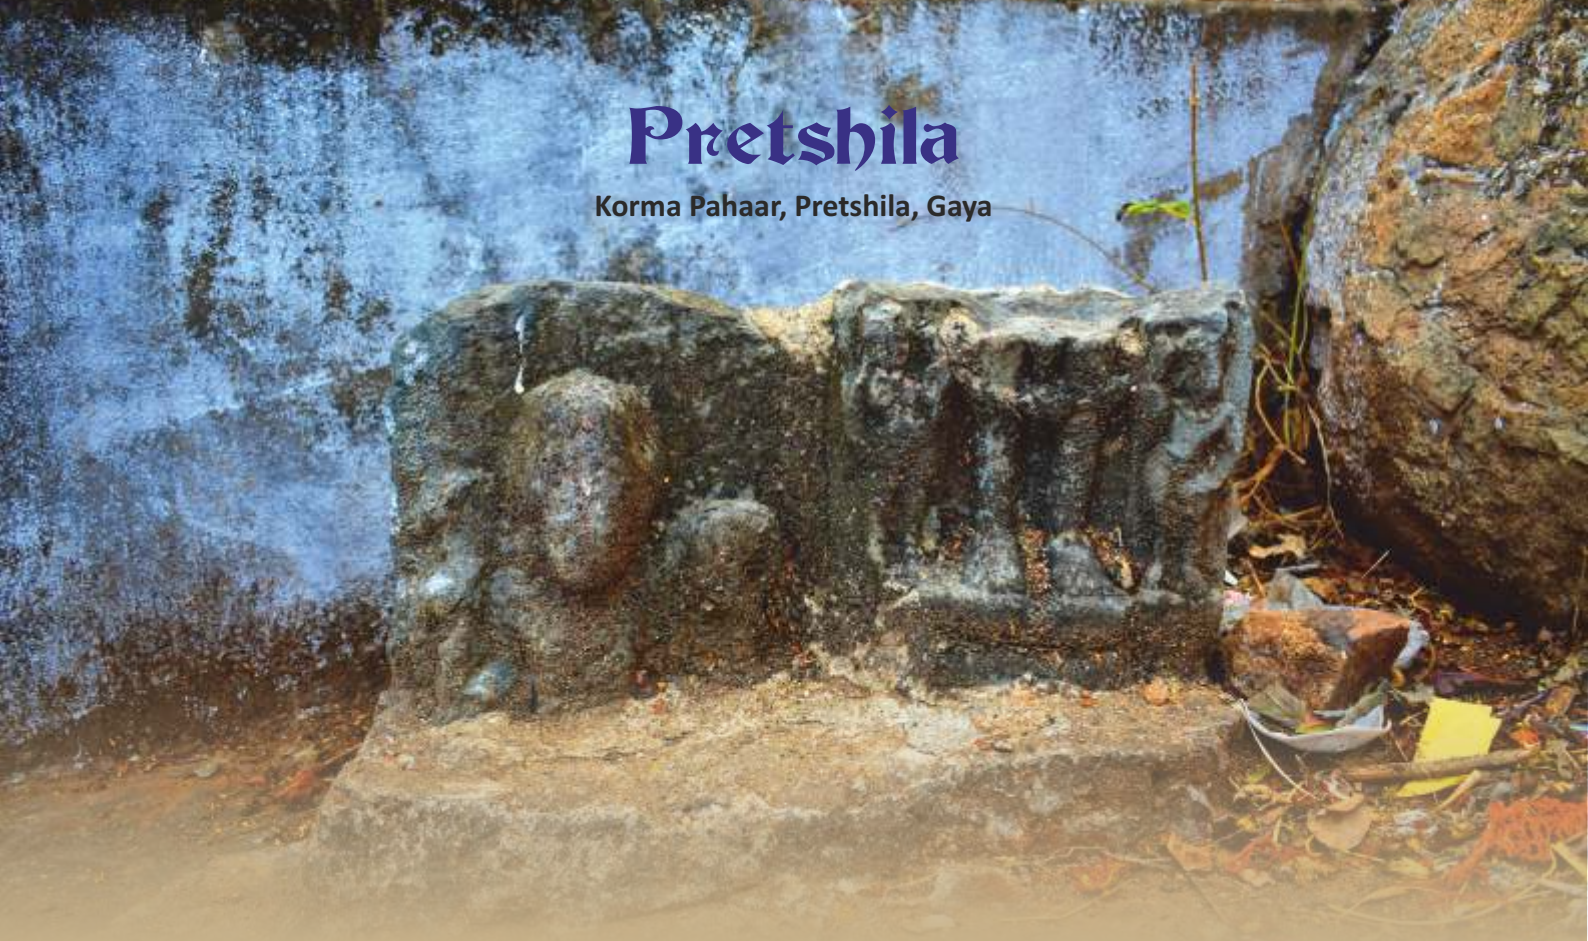

Another legend has it that Sita Mata took a bath in this pool while going to exile for 14 years along with Rama and Lakshmana and hence the name Sita Kund. It is a witness to many cultural developments that took place in the past and even today people are carrying forward the same custom as a tradition.

Ruins of Nalanda University

Nalanda

Nalanda was a renowned mahavihara (Buddhist monastic university) in ancient Magadha (modern-day Bihar). Considered by historians to be the world's first residential university and among the greatest centers of learning in the ancient world, it was located near the city of Rajagriha (now Rajgir) and about 90 kilometres southeast of Pataliputra (now Patna). Operating from 427 until 1197 CE, Nalanda played a vital role in promoting the patronage of arts and academics during the 5th and 6th century CE, a period that has since been described as the "Golden Age of India" by scholars.

For about 750 years, its faculty included some of the most revered scholars of Mahayana Buddhism. Nalanda Mahavihara taught six major Buddhist schools and philosophies such as Yogachara and Sarvastivada as well as subjects such as grammar, medicine, logic and mathematics.

Kumhrar Park

Kumhrar, Patna

Kumhrar is the area of Patna where remains of the ancient city of Pataliputra were excavated by the Archaeological Survey of India. Archaeological remains of the Mauryan period (322–185 BCE) have been discovered here, this includes the ruins of a hypostyle 80-pillared hall. The excavation finding here dates back to 600 BCE, and marks the ancient capital of Ajatsatru, Chandragupta and Ashoka, and collectively the relics range from four continuous periods from 600 BCE to 600 CE.

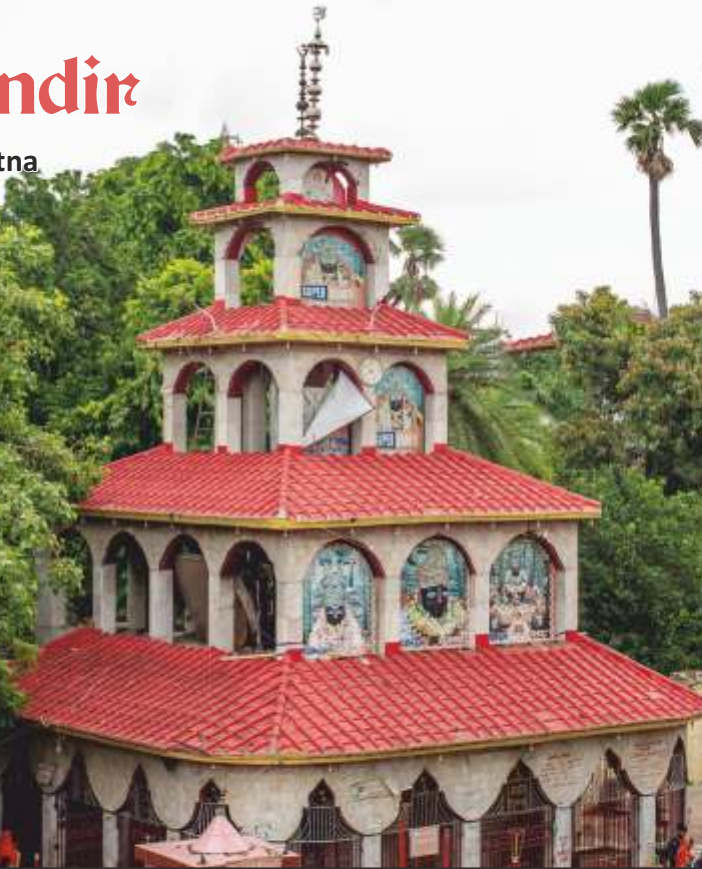

In Kumhrar there is one pillar of polished stone, and a very large number of fragments. The excavators were able to trace 72 'pits' of ash and rubble on the site which marked the position in which other pillars must once have stood.

Takht Shri Harmandir Ji Patna Sahib

Chowk Patna City, Patna

Guru Gobind Singh, the tenth Sikh Guru, was born in Patna, on 22 December 1666. He also spent his early years here before moving to Anandpur Sahib. Besides being the birthplace of Guru Gobind Singh, Patna was also honored by the visits of Guru Nanak and Guru Tegh Bahadur. Takht Sri Patna Sahib, Patna Sahib, is a one of the five Takhts of the Sikhs, located in Patna. The construction of the Takht was started by Maharaja Ranjit Singh in the 18th century to mark the birthplace of Guru Gobind Singh. Due to the damages caused by an earthquake in 1934, the building was rebuilt between 1948 and 1957.

Golghar

Gandhi Maidan, Patna

The Golghar is a large granary located on the west of the Gandhi Maidan in Patna. Golghar in Patna was intended to be just the first of a series of huge grain stores, in the end, however, no others were ever built. The granary was "part of a general plan for the perpetual prevention of famine in these provinces". The beehive - shaped structure was designed by John Garstin of the Bengal Engineers, part of the East India Company's Bengal Army. Its construction was completed on 20 July 1786. Golghar building has a height of 29 meters and is pillar-less with a wall of thickness of 3.6 m at the base. It has 145-step spiral stairway. The spiral staircase was designed to facilitate the passage of workers to load and unload grain in the granary. Grain-bags were delivered through a hole at the top, and workers descended the other stairs. The top of the Golghar presents a panoramic view of the city and the Ganges.

Buddha Smriti Park

Patna Junction, Patna

Buddha Smriti Park is an urban park located in Patna, India. This park has been developed to commemorate the 2554th birth anniversary of Buddha. This park was inaugurated by the 14th Dalai Lama and he planted two saplings of the sacred Bodhi tree; one which was brought from Bodh Gaya and the other from Anuradhapura in Sri Lanka. A branch of the original Mahabodhi tree at Bodh Gaya is believed to have been taken to Anuradhapura in Sri Lanka by Emperor Ashoka's son Mahendra. The central attraction of this park is the stupa, known as Patliputra Karuna Stupa, 200 feet high, situated in the middle of the park. This 22 acre park located in the heart of city houses the pot containing holy ashes of Buddha inside the main stupa. The park has a museum, where Buddhist relics from Japan, Myanmar, South Korea, Sri Lanka and Thailand have been installed.

Buddha Relic

Vaishali

Buddha Relic Stupa, enshrining one of the eight parts of the mortal remains of Lord Buddha after he attained Mahaparinirvana, is one of the most revered sites for Buddhists. A protected Archaeological Survey of India (ASI) site is located around 55km northwest of Patna in Vaishali district. The Buddha Relic Stupa was built by Lichhavis as a mud-stupa in the 5th century BC. The relic casket excavated from the core of the stupa contained the holy ashes of Lord Buddha mixed with earth, a piece of conch, pieces of beads, a thin golden leaf and a copper punch-marked coin.

Basokund Jain Mandir

Vaishali

Vaishali district is known for its many religious significance. The history of this district has been extended from Lord Buddha to Lord Mahavir. This place is known as the birth place of Bhagwaan Mahavir. BC 599 on 'chaitra shukla trayodashi' Vardhamaan took birth to King Siddhartha and Queen Trishala here.

Bhagwan Mahaveer Janam Smarak, Basokund - is a temple and holy place for Jainism. Vaishali's Bawan Pokhar Jain Temple is also known as the birthplace of Lord Mahavir and is quite famous here. Historians believe that this Jain temple was built by the Pallava kings. In the year 1956, the then 1st President of India Dr. Rajendra Prasad visited this place to lay foundation stone for Mahavir Center for research of Jainism and its principles of Ahimsa and study of Prakrut Language. On the occasion of 2600 birth anivarsary of Mahavir, a grand ceremony was held here.

Ashok Stambh

Vaishali

Kolhua is a famous Buddhist excavation site situated approximately 65 km North-West of Patna. The excavations have revealed the famous Ashokan Pillar having a statue of lion on the top. Excavations also revealed, many other articles related to Buddhism. Emperor Ashoka built “The Lion Pillar” at Kolhua. It is made of a highly polished single piece of red sandstone, surmounted by a bell shaped capital, 18.3 m high. A life-size figure of a lion is placed on top of the pillar. There is a small tank here known as Ramkund. This pillar beside a brick stupa at Kolhua commemorates Buddha's last sermon.

Kesaria Stupa

Kesaria, East Champaran, Bihar

The original Kesariya stupa probably dates to the time of Ashoka (circa 250 BCE), as the remains of a capital of a Pillar of Ashoka were discovered there. The stupa mound may even have been inaugurated during the Buddha's time, as it corresponds in many respects to the description of the stupa erected by the Licchavis of Vaishali to house the alms bowl the Buddha had given them.

The current stupa dates to the Gupta Dynasty between 200 AD and 750 AD, and may have been associated with the 4th century ruler Raja Chakravarti. The local people call this stupa "Devala", meaning "house of god". Kesaria Stupa is considered to be the largest stupa in the world.

Jain Temple

Bhagalpur

The Champapur Digambar Jain Mandir dedicated to Vasupujya, the 12th Tirthankara is located in Nathnagar of Bhagalpur city and happens to be ancient and Historical. It is believed that all the five “Kalyanakas” of Vasupujya Tirthankara took place in Champapur. Champapur is said to have been the capital of the Anga Kingdom ruled by Karna, the sixth Pandava. The Main temple of Champapur is believed to be about 2500 years old, adorned with five altars symbolising the Five Kalyanaka. There are two spectacular 'Columns of Fame' that have survived among the four that existed on each corner of the compound.

Vikramshila University Ruins

Bhagalpur

Vikramashila was one of the three most important Buddhist monasteries in India during the Pala Empire, along with Nalanda and Odantapuri. Its location is now Antichak village, Bhagalpur district in Bihar. Vikramashila was established by the Pala emperor Dharmapala (783 to 820 AD) in response to a supposed decline in the quality of scholarship at Nalanda. It was destroyed by the forces of Muhammad bin Bakhtiyar Khalji around 1193.

Maa Chandika Shakti Peeth

Munger

Chandika Sthan is a Hindu temple situated in Munger. It is one of the fifty-one Shakti Peethas, places of worship consecrated to the goddess Shakti. On the Northeast corner of Munger, Chandika Sthan is just two kilometers away from the Munger town. Being a Siddhi-Peetha, Chandika Sthan is considered to be one of the most sacred and sanctified temples.

Legendary tales and the Hindu folklore says that it was to save the world from the anger of Shiva, as he took the corpse of Sati and wandered. The same legend says that the left eye of the Sati fell at Munger, which subsequently developed into a place of worship of the Divine Mother Chandi.

Tutla Bhawani Waterfall

Sasaram, Rohtas

Tutla Bhawani is located nearby Tilauthu and approximately 20 Km south west from Dehri-on-Sone. Tutrahi is about 8 km south-west of Tilauthu in the valley of the hill. This is the most picturesque place in Rohtas district. Here, between two high hills on the north-west and south-east side, about 1 mile long and a valley full of greenery, in front of the waterfall and the water of the Kachuar river flowing through the valley, presents a wonderful view.

There is a platform inside the waterfall on its right (south) side at a slight height. There is a statue of Maa Jagaddhatri Mahishmardini Durga on the platform. In recent times, this site has been developed as an eco-tourism site by the Forest Department. All tourist facilities including road, swing pool, e-rickshaw are present here.

Shergarh Fort

Rohtas

Shergarh Fort is a ruined fort in Malhipur, Chenari block of Sasaram, it is well connected from Kudra and as well from Sasaram, Bihar. It is a hill fort on a Kaimur plateau about 800 feet in height and was fortified by Emperor Sher Shah Suri. The fort is in dense forest, making access difficult from the bottom of the plateau. The fort lies on the banks of the Durgavati River.

The fort was built by Emperor Sher Shah Suri. In the 16th century the fort was known as Bhurkuda Qila. The area of the fort is nearly 16 km². Its main entrance originally had eight small domes but now there are only five. One kilometre from the main entrance is a lake called Rani Pokhra (Queen's Pond), and on an adjacent hill is an underground fort.

Sher Shah Suri Tomb

Rohtas

The Tomb of Sher Shah Suri is situated at Sasaram in Rohtas district of Bihar. Sher Shah Suri's tomb is a majestic example of ancient architecture. It has elements of Indo-Islamic architecture which includes large open courtyards, high domes, and pillars. It has hints of Afghan architecture as well. This beautiful structure is a three-storeyed high mausoleum (approximately one hundred and twenty-two feet). It stands in the middle of an artificial square-shaped lake.

Ropeway Mandar Hill Banka

Banka

Mandar hill ropeway, has been constructed by the Tourism Department in the Banka district. Tourists can easily see the historical, mythological, and religious places of Mandar hill by sitting in this newly constructed ropeway. There are other religious places like Sita Kund, Lord Narsingh Cave Temple, Goshala, Yoni Kund which are important from the religious point of view and enjoy the panoramic valleys from such a height is a pleasant feeling. Construction of Mandar hill ropeway has led to increased tourists footfall. It used to take about 1 hour for the tourists to climb the mountain on foot, whereas with the help of this ropeway, now the mountain peak can be reached from the mountain lowlands in 4 minutes.
